The web server will not accept curl, and I am using LWP and can't seem to figure out how to get it to work. I need to upload a large csv file, and will not be using a huge chunk of memory with curl. I only want to upload a chunk of the csv so that I don't have to wait for it to fully upload before I do the next step. I know I should use curl with stream_context_create, or even raw POST. But I'm still not understanding how to do a POST in LWP using streams. Any help would be awesome! A: The following code takes a range of bytes from a file and gets it uploaded to another server via FTP using PHP. (Works if the other server requires anonymous logins.) $file = "/path/to/file.txt"; $filename = "$file_listing.csv"; // Log in to the FTP $ftp = ftp_connect('ftp.example.com'); // Login anonymously $ftp_login = ftp_login($ftp, 'anonymous', 'anonymous@example.com'); // Upload the file ftp_pasv($ftp, true); ftp_fput($ftp, $filename, $file, FTP_ASCII); // Ensure we are connected ftp_close($ftp); Captain Marvel star Brie Larson to play 'Wonder Woman' Brie Larson will star as Wonder Woman in the feature film coming to Warner Bros.
